fall with the effect of the All Canada Congress to unite the trade unions of this city. He stressed the fact that whereas the membership of the Congress once had been 100,000 it was now less than 100,000.

"As a Labor movement, we cannot sit idly by and see the scattering of the trade unions," he said. "The trades union in the motion picture business have brought about better conditions, with hours shortened to a day. We cannot permit such inroads as are being attempted."

SPREAD TO BROTHERS
Mr. Farnio also said that those attempts to undermine the trade unions were extending their activities to the brewery workers and that they were not active only in this city but in Calgary, Stratford, Ont. and other points. He related an instance of the latter of which he had heard in Winnipeg.

The beer did not have the union label and was returned to storage here. Hotels with agreements with the trades unions were warned.

"There is a sinister influence at work to destroy our movement," he said. "But the movement has stood firm through four years of aggression and it still forms the foundation of which a superstructure of a new order will be built. If these people were to succeed in their attempt to extend the political program of the movement by 15 years, if they cannot destroy it, they will retard it."

Delegate Fred Smedd could see both financial and Labor assistance being given those who would overthrow the trade unions.

ONLY WAY OUT
Delegated Angus Morrison said that the "guttering tactics" of those who would destroy us are bringing us to a point where we must only way out is in the trade unions.

A lengthy discussion revolved around the resolution advocating the closing of sweatshops.

Delegated Sam Silgo submitted that unless proper control was exercised they might as well leave it alone. Delegates E. F. Roper was opposed to the motion on the ground that it was taking too much time.

Delegated Margaret MacLaren advocated the resolution include some provision for removing the cause of the problem.

Delegated E. F. Roper was able to inform to obtain sweeping powers from the union doing charges. W. H. Miller thought the convention should not encourage making the young generation.

IF IT WILL HELP ALBERTA THE EDMONTON BULLETIN IS FOR IT

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 10

SURELY NOT THAT!

Ottawa correspondents are already guessing what the new budget will be like.

They have no suspicion that Mr. Rhodes will play Santa Claus on the non-expectant public and present us with a reduction of taxation. On the contrary, they feared any such hope and tell us to brace ourselves for a harder and more onerous tax on tea, coffee, sugar and other necessities. They would prefer the ease of the prospect of a new budget to a heavier rate imposed upon the fortunate few who still gather in large incomes. There is, it is said, no escape from this. It is it will be time enough to condemn such future necessity-taxation when it is introduced.

Meanwhile the public must wait the Minister the joy of declining to believe that he contemplains any such outrage.

A NATIONAL WORK DAY

The western premiers at the conference at Victoria decided to request the Dominion to regulate hours of labor in these provinces.

If the session is made real and agreed by all the provinces, that will be important, since it will mean nationwide uniformity as to the length of the working day.

The decision itself is interesting as being one of a few times on record that two or more provinces have agreed to concede to the Dominion authority except the privilege of getting them out of trouble.

The Dominion has not secured the power to regulate hours of labor throughout Canada, and cannot secure it except by consent of all the provinces. That the consent will be forthcoming is by no means assured.

The great industrial provinces of Ontario and Quebec in particular have yet to be heard from. These are provinces which are not notable for taking power from the Dominion, nor for surrendering power they held to the national authority, and it is not always been jealous of any change that might interfere with their industrial supremacy. It is to be hoped they will agree to this change, but that cannot be taken for granted.

RESTRAINED ENTHUSIASM

Premier Bennett paused long enough in his constitutional flight to tell a reporter at Calgary he is "not at all sure" as to the public works construction, but that "great exultation" would be needed if anything of the kind were undertaken. "Full idea of 'full employment' means money spent on public works as a means of relieving unemployment.

However his idea of 'full employment' means

Premier of not being able to restrain enthusiasm for any and every sort of recovery effort. He "warns up" to that idea about the way a banker does in depression days when someone asks him for a loan. As an example of suppressed impulse this late deliverance could hardly be beaten. If anyone can infer from it that the Government of Canada has any construction program positively in mind he is a super-seer.

Less gifted souls can only note that the Premier is "not aware" to say a proposal, provided the only sort of intervention that could stop it.

If Paraguay's ports were occupied by foreign war-ships, and a foreign army marched half way across the continent strong enough to bring both countries to a tie, a peace of force could of course be established—and would last until the foreign troops and war-ships departed.

That will not happen. But something of the kind would have been due to happen if the League had been empowered to do what was suggested when it was formed, and for certain reasons in its covenant were drafted. The original plan was that the League should be empowered, and bound, to upon member-nation to put ships and troops at its disposal with which it could force peace upon belligerents who refused to listen to its councils.

It would cost something to send an expeditionary force to stop the fighting in the heart of South America, and the intervening nations would have had to share the cost in lives and money. The country in dispute is not worth the price. If Paraguay and Bolivia are foolish enough to fight each other for it, they should, at as they will be, left to provide the victims and not the bill.

It is fortunate that the dream of making the League a super-state and regulator of all nations turned out to be a dream. Canada has neither men nor money to waste in settling the fate of the Gran Chaco.

The annual ball given on Thursday evening by the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of G division of the police at Fort Saskatchewan was a grand success.

fere with their Chinese exclusion law.

Poems That Live

MANKIND

Men are but children of a larger growth;

Our appetites are apt to change as theirs,

And full of craving too, and full of need,

And yet the soul, shut up in dark room,

Viewing us clear abroad, at home sees nothing;

But, like a man in a dream, it bids us live,

Works all her folly up, and casts it outward.

To the world's open view.

—John Dryden.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

General Johnson, administrator of Roosevelt's NRA policies around the corner of sea-far-faring men and got his metaphors mixed when he discussed the National Bureau of Manufacturers to "get about the ship" with Roosevelt because it was "on sound ground" thus to avoid "jumping into an unmeasured abyss" but his chief wins the praise of all honest men in his address at the opening of Congress.

This category doesn't include the investment bankers and other financial trustriggers who plucked fortunes out of trusting dupes and then in turn defrauded the treasury out of its share of the

J. S. Cowper dishonest gains. Defrauding the income tax authorities out of revenue isn't any more heinous than defrauding trusting clients by rigging the market for worthless securities (?). The state checker, has weapons enough to defend against financial barcaners that the private citizen lacks. Apparently these are going to be strengthened and improved, said Roosevelt.

"Business" practices have been brought to light which have shocked those who believed that we were, in the past generation, raising the ethical standard of business.

They call for stringent preventive or regulatory measures.

"An speaking of those individuals who have evaded the spirit and purpose of our tax laws, of those high officials of banks or corporations who have grown rich at the expense of their stockholders or the public or those reckless speculators with their own or other people's money whose operations have injured the value of our farmers' crops and the savings of the poor.

The new Securities Act will prevent in United States any such revival of industries and inflation of prices and real estate needs we in Canada have seen in the pulp and paper and cement industries. It will make the investment world more sane and sane business buccannering financiers from using people's bank deposits and policy holders' funds to buy up bank stocks and other securities with liability to pay perpetual interest on billions of re-promotion profits. These financial freebooters have actually evaded the masses of relatively poor people, and their accumulated funds. Savings put by for the provincial rainy day or for insurance protection against old age have been sent to upon the back of the subscribers, liability to pay interest on billions of dollars worth of water" in recapitulation.

THE STEPS PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT MAY TAKE

to make these financial leeches disgorge some of their prodigious gains have admitted that will be watched with interest in Canada. Some of those who have by questionable methods amassed enormous wealth have admitted that their knavery included "subsidies" in Canada for income tax exemption purposes, and have defrauded the Canadian income tax authorities. Poor people, and the honest buccanneries are more devious than that of the American bootleggers, who after paying protection money to the government, and then estimate their illegal profits and make out an income tax return, frankly describing their occupations.

He is a very simple man who thinks that no rich men in Canada have defrauded the income. Sir Thomas D'Arcy McGee, the Victory Bonds gave the war profiteers a legal way of escaping assessments laid upon their humble equipment and property. The same has been used as an illegal method for rich men to escape paying taxes. Some of President Roosevelt has set a new fashion of man's fraud most likely got their added profits by keeping their bonds in New York collection, and exacting the American

Near Sightedness

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

A late magazine article says that many of the popular motion picture stars wear glasses to correct nearsightedness during the time they are not before the camera. It is said young women in Hollywood are making it fashionable to wear glasses as nearsightedness is now thought to make a girl more glamorous and fascinating.

The interesting explanation of the fact that many of the near-sighted girls seem to attract men is given in the fact that she opens her eyes wide to let in more light and this makes the eyes seem larger, also she leans close to the person near her in an effort to see and this conveys the impression that

Dr. F. McCoy she is greatly interested in what she is saying.

Even though I doubt if the nearsighted person possesses any greater appeal for a member of the opposite sex than he or she with normal eyesight, I approve of the article because it so strongly stresses the fact that the nearsighted person needs wear glasses. Any popular article along this

BIRDS POINT WAY TO YOU

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think it is the proper thing for married people to live with their parents or to go to themselves? My married neighbor has lived with her father and mother for four years and she makes much more out of it. I would like for her to go to herself, but if I tell her so, she will like it. However, I do not like to stand the war any longer, as I have three single boys to take care of. What shall I do?

Answer:—Even the birds have enough sense to show their young out of the nest when they are grown, and it is no wonder that human beings should have an equal amount of intelligence.

No young couple have a right to get married until they are able to support their independent home. It is an imposition for them to come and settle down in their parents' and graft their living off the old people.

Only too many boys and girls do this. They have so little independence of character and so little spirit of fair play that rather than wait until they are ready to meet the responsibilities of married life, husbands and wives and bring them back home for mother and father.

In only too many households instead of the burden of their children's support which they are saddled with more mouths to feed, more backs to clothe.

Father has to work harder at 50 than he did at 40, because he has his in-laws and his grand-children in his way. He has to be a mother, instead of being able to take his own life, as he had at 40, and he is forced to become the unpaid nurse for his daughter's babies.

Of course, parents are very silly to let their children make goats of them in this way. They also do children a great injustice because they encourage them in becoming parasites instead of forcing them to go to work and become self-respecting, self-supporting men and women.

The youngsters will have to do a lot of hustling and make many sacrifices and have a set of anxieties and cares if they live on their own homes that they will not experience if they go to live on their parents' home. It is precisely this experience that they need to develop them. It is the toughest the muscles of their souls live to do them good as long as they live.

There is something radically wrong about any young couple who don't want to get married. Especially is there something wrong about a woman who doesn't go to work for her own home. It shows that she is lazy. She isn't willing to do the work that it takes to make a home, and the sooner she is cured of this habit the better.

Moreover, Susan still finds work for idle hands to do, and he furnishes it a plenty for the young wife who boards, or lives with mother and late mother do it. It is the best thing for the young wife to do, and she should be glad to do it.

So poor, tired mother, for the good of your daughter's soul and your own peace and quiet, make her and her husband go to house-keeping, and serve notice on all your other children that they have to set up their own homes when they get married and that they can't bring their husbands and wives to live with you.

Have to make brains as an excuse. I have seen many young couples who don't want to get married and make them try to do it.

Question—Is it proper for a girl to send a gift and a note of congratulations to a boy high school senior in the church, is it proper for the mother of honor and bridesmaids to precede the bride down one side, while the sisters and best man and bridegroom walk together down the other aisle? I'm inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope with a list of other questions concerning invitations, announcements, etc. If there is any change let me know please.

Answer—Bridges and best men are never in the procession. The ushers march first, followed by the bridesmaids (at an interval) after another space the mother of honor walks alone. Lastly, after a longer space, comes the bride on the arm of her father. In a two-aisle church, the priest or priestess goes down the left aisle with additional details and answers to other questions will be found in "Wedding Etiquette" mailed in your stamped, addressed envelope. There is no charge.

Question—Is it proper for a girl to send a gift and a note of congratulations to a boy high school senior in the church, is it proper for the mother of honor and bridesmaids to precede the bride down one side, while the sisters and best man and bridegroom walk together down the other aisle? I'm inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope with a list of other questions concerning invitations, announcements, etc. If there is any change let me know please.

Answer—Bridges and best men are never in the procession. The ushers march first, followed by the bridesmaids (at an interval) after another space the mother of honor walks alone. Lastly, after a longer space, comes the bride on the arm of her father. ## Who Are You?

Macdonald

The Clan Macdonald, a small but ancient Scottish clan, was an offshoot of the Clan Donald. According to tradition, one of the Macdonalds owned territory in Kintyre, and his descendants assumed the name of Macdonald. The Macdonalds owned estates in Glenelg as far back as 1300. They were hereditary barons, and the Stewarts, Lords of Lorn, which they possessed passed into the hands of the Campbells. It is said that at one time the village of Clachan on Loch Awe was almost wholly inhabited by Macdonalds, who carried on a weaving industry.

Macdonalds were also famous for their pipes and were the hereditary pipers of Macdonalds of Clanranald.

Dried Vegetables Have Place On The Menu

By SISTER MARY

One of the best brains the home-maker can buy is found in the dried vegetables known as legumes—peas, beans and lentils. Although poor in vitamins C and E, they are rich in calories and mineral salts and lend themselves to many savory dishes and soups for cold days.

Because these vegetables have long been known to be rich in protein they are often called the "poor man's meat" and are regarded as meat substitutes. However, they are a great difference from meat in the nutritive value of proteins in different sources. Legumes are not considered an adequate substitute for meat unless they are served with such proteins as milk and eggs. The protein found in dried beans, peas and lentils is known as an "incomplete" protein which is lacking in those substances necessary for growth and health.

MINERALS IN LEGUMES

These qualities are mentioned not with the intention of discouraging the use of the legumes, but to give mothers a clearer understanding of the actual value of these foods in the diet.

Quite aside from their protein content, legumes furnish iron and phosphorus in worth-while quantities. Both these mineral constituents are of great importance for body growth and repair.

Peas and beans also contain much starch and care must be taken in planning meals that other sources of starch are not included. Since legumes are mild in flavor they are more appetizing if combined with highly flavored foods and made savory with careful seasoning.

Long cooking is imperative to soften the tough fiber and make them palatable. When served to small children or old people they should be rubbed through a sieve to remove the coarse outer coverings.

Two cups dried lima beans, 1 small onion, 1 sweet green pepper (optional), 4 slices bacon, 2 cups corned tomatoes, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon mustard.

Soak beans in water to cover overnight. In the morning drain and simmer in boiling salted water for 30 minutes; let the water cook away as much as possible. Put a layer of beans in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with finely minced pepper, onion cut in thin slices and bacon cut in tiny squares. Stir bacon in frying pan before cutting in squares. Continue alternating layers of beans and seasonings until all are used. Add salt, sugar, pepper and mustard to tomatoes and pour over beans. Cover casserole and bake in a moderate oven for four hours.

Another way to make lima beans is to boil them, after soaking overnight, until tender. Drain and place in a shallow baking dish. Cover the top with strips of very thin bacon. Pour tomato juice seasoned with onion in at one end of the dish until the beans are barely covered. Turn bake in a moderate oven until the bacon is crisp. It will take about 40 minutes.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Halves of grapefruit, cereal, cream, fried bread, popovers, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Baked lima beans, eggs and lettuce salad, brown bread, sweetened milk, tea.

DINNER: Boiled corned beef, steamed potatoes, creamed

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A mother often wonders why children forget so easily. Five minutes after she has given an order that all there is to it. She must as well have saved her order.

Why is it so? We do an order before cutting in squares. Continue alternating layers of beans and seasonings until all are used. Add salt, sugar, pepper and mustard to tomatoes and pour over beans. Cover casserole and bake in a moderate oven for four hours.

Gladys Submits a Five-Day Diet To Reduce Fat Gal Who Overeats

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

Gladys has lived with her father and mother for four years and she makes much more out of it. I would like for her to go to herself, but if I tell her so, she will like it. However, I do not like to stand the war any longer, as I have three single boys to take care of. What shall I do?

Answer:—Even the birds have enough sense to show their young out of the nest when they are grown, and it is no wonder that human beings should have an equal amount of intelligence.

No young couple have a right to get married until they are able to support their independent home. It is an imposition for them to come and settle down in their parents' and graft their living off the old people.

Only too many boys and girls do this. They have so little independence of character and so little spirit of fair play that rather than wait until they are ready to meet the responsibilities of married life, husbands and wives and bring them back home for mother and father.

In only too many households instead of the burden of their children's support which they are saddled with more mouths to feed, more backs to clothe.

Father has to work harder at 50 than he did at 40, because he has his in-laws and his grand-children in his way. He has to be a mother, instead of being able to take his own life, as he had at 40, and he is forced to become the unpaid nurse for his daughter's babies.

Of course, parents are very silly to let their children make goats of them in this way. They also do children a great injustice because they encourage them in becoming parasites instead of forcing them to go to work and become self-respecting, self-supporting men and women.

The youngsters will have to do a lot of hustling and make many sacrifices and have a set of anxieties and cares if they live on their own homes that they will not experience if they go to live on their parents' home. It is precisely this experience that they need to develop them. It is the toughest the muscles of their souls live to do them good as long as they live.

There is something radically wrong about any young couple who don't want to get married. Especially is there something wrong about a woman who doesn't go to work for her own home. It shows that she is lazy. She isn't willing to do the work that it takes to make a home, and the sooner she is cured of this habit the better.

Moreover, Susan still finds work for idle hands to do, and he furnishes it a plenty for the young wife who boards, or lives with mother and late mother do it. It is the best thing for the young wife to do, and she should be glad to do it.

So poor, tired mother, for the good of your daughter's soul and your own peace and quiet, make her and her husband go to house-keeping, and serve notice on all your other children that they have to set up their own homes when they get married and that they can't bring their husbands and wives to live with you.

Have to make brains as an excuse. I have seen many young couples who don't want to get married and make them try to do it.

Question—Is it proper for a girl to send a gift and a note of congratulations to a boy high school senior in the church, is it proper for the mother of honor and bridesmaids to precede the bride down one side, while the sisters and best man and bridegroom walk together down the other aisle? I'm inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope with a list of other questions concerning invitations, announcements, etc. If there is any change let me know please.

Answer—Bridges and best men are never in the procession. The ushers march first, followed by the bridesmaids (at an interval) after another space the mother of honor walks alone. Lastly, after a longer space, comes the bride on the arm of her father. In a two-aisle church, the priest or priestess goes down the left aisle with additional details and answers to other questions will be found in "Wedding Etiquette" mailed in your stamped, addressed envelope. There is no charge.

Official Hardness Toward Depressed Must Be Stopped

Heartily Commended by Federation.

Approval of the action of their president, Fred J. White, Calgary, and secretary, Carl E. Berg, Edmonton, in protesting statements of A. A. MacKenzie, chairman of the Al-ministers for accepting him, were the main feature of the annual meeting. The resolution was annually adopted by delegates to the annually adopted by delegates to the Berta Federation of Labor at the Labor Temple on Tuesday.

The resolution, originally directed at Mr. MacKenzie, was amended to include approval of the officer's action and condemnation of ministers one bushel of good oats for two bushels of the feed oats. These feed oats from the 1933 crop, while good for feed purposes, have little germinating quality.

Officers Installed
By I.O.O.F. Lodge

As finally approved the resolution submitted by Nacmine Local, No. 4465, U.M.W.A., read as follows:

FORMAL RESOLUTION

"Whereas A. A. MacKenzie, Installation of officers of Friendship Lodge No. 7, I.O.O.F., was conducted by W. R. Gilchrist, district deputy grand master, on Tuesday evening at the Oddfellows' hall on 97 street and 105A avenue, W. Georrie was the assisting deputy grand marshal, pointment of a man who to a great degree would be guided by humanitarian principles rather thaniless of a penurious nature, that this convention approves the action of President White and Secretary Berg in protesting the actions of Mr. MacKenzie and we condemn Premier J. E. Brownlee and his ministers for defending Mr. MacKenzie's actions."

CITES PEOPLE'S GRIEF

Taking a leading part in the discussion, Delegate Elmer E. Roper, who delivered the main argument in support of the resolution, said, "I think the protest made was justified action in protesting the statements. We can sing all we like about who is and who is not afraid of the big bad bear. But the big bad wolf is with us just the same. Our delegates must go back to their locals and feel that everything possible is being done by the Alberta Federation of Labor to stop such ned in every sense: never in my 20 years in the Labor party have I seen a man make such a howling snow. I feel that we can be rightly indignant over such statements. Relief officials must be humane and must treat men and women as men and women."

TOO MUCH OFFICIALDOM

Delegate Angus J. Morrison, Calgary, raised the discussion in the convention was following the same lines as that in committee. "This MacKenzie question is becoming a very painful with me," he said. "But we must remember that MacKenzie is not entirely to blame. He is the hireling, or office boy, of those in charge of the administration and the committee, in drafting the resolution, had in mind that his superiors were responsible. In the meantime, he is a poor fellow who knows that officialdom is not really ward. Then even though the official could not do much, the unfortunate would go away feeling better.

"This sergeant-major attitude in dealing with relief has got to stop," declared Mr. Roper. Most people are applying for relief because they cannot help it and because it is the only wool over our eyes. We are informed on the subject and we will let the voice of Labor go out in condemnation both of Mr. MacKenzie and his superior."

Several other delegates spoke briefly along the same general lines, after which the resolution was adopted.

PRICES FIRM AS MARKET MOVES AT SNAIL PACE

By VICTOR EUBANK
Associated Press Financial Writer
Drops in wheat, 10-15 cents, moved at a tortoise-like pace today but prices generally continued to display a moderate and steady character. The price of wheat was the only one that showed little or no speculative interest. Professionals accounted for a majority of the measure trading in the early hours. Grain and other commodities were quiet. The price of shares of American Telephone, A. T. & T., closed at 24 1/2. Industrial Alcohol and American Petroleum closed at 10 1/2 and 10 1/4, respectively. Calumet of fractions to find a point included Western, U. S. Steel, Case, Chrysler, Nat. Oil, DuPont, N.Y. Central, General Motors, General Electric, etc. The tobacco market after a quiet day of yesterday and was only slightly higher. The market was very active unchanged.

Edmonton Grain
By Gillespie Grain Co. Ltd.
NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Am of the opinion that the market is anxious, selling and capable of raising prices extensively. It is rather obvious that it is going to take time to inaugurate a new phase of advance and it is believed that the news to come in the form of better business reports. Advance in continuing to advocate the market is not in the least likely to outlast the opinion. Reports from the major factor in the advance here. Through the export sales of Vancouver, there is also a large influence.
